Ah Valentine's Day. The day when your newly paired off friends float, your married pals gloat, and your single friends, well they should take note. Sure V'day is a red letter day for chocolate & roses ad nauseum, but it's also a day to show some appreciation for the person that you love more than anything and shower them with gifts. (that would be yourself!) In other words, don't wait for him to make you feel special, we think that you're pretty awesome and deserve some lovely treats. (and we don't think that you need to wait for one day a year to indulge, but it does make for a wonderful excuse to spoil yourself silly).

LUSH. Sigh, we are in love with love and in lust with LUSH products, and this Soft Coeur Massage Bar (aka the Honeymooner) is no exception. One caveat, sure you'll smell good enough to eat, but this soap's resemblance to cookie dough made us want to take a bite out of it too....

We love AirForce Nutrisoda - not only does it look pretty, but it actually might make you look pretty. Here's how- Airforce contains vitamins and anti-oxidants that can make you look more beautiful from the inside out. Available at Target.

Ooh La La - www.objetsdenvy.com has loads of glittery Swarovski jewelry to adorn your girly self. Mmm, we're digging this petal pink bracelet with silver toggle clasp.
